

NEWSY LETTER

From Our Special Correspondent
—What Earlington Soldiers
Are Doing In Paducah.

CAPTAIN PRICE COMPLIMENTED.

Camp Yeiser, Wallace Park.
Paducah, Aug. 29, 1905.

Dear Editor: The local military company, Co. G, after leaving Earlington at noon Friday, Aug. 25, with Co. E, of Madisonville, being delayed two hours beyond the scheduled hour for leaving by No. 11, which was late and arrived at Nortonville without incident.

At Nortonville the companies on the Illinois Central railroad, east of that place, were attached and the departure for Paducah began on a special train on that road. A delay of about 40 minutes was caused by waiting for the special at that point.

On arriving at Princeton, the Henderson, Hopkinsville and several other companies were put onto our train. About one mile west of Gravel Switch, the first station west of Princeton, the soldier train was delayed one hour and forty minutes by a wreck that had occurred at that place, and which necessitated the wrecker being ordered from Paducah to assist in clearing up the track. Notwithstanding this the special arrived at Paducah only 30 minutes late, or at 5:30 p. m.

After detrainment, the Third Regiment upon arrival was accomplished in a record breaking time, beating the record made by First Regiment, who had beaten all records up to the time the Third Regiment arrived, and as they had the reputation of accomplishing this in less time than any troops, regulars or state militia, ever had done, the regiment established a record that ranks them at the head of them all.

After detrainment, twelve street cars were pressed into service and the Regiment was taken to the camp site at Wallace Park, about three miles from the city. Although the press dispatches stated a few days previous to leaving home that the tents would be left standing, the various companies had to stretch their tents, and this was done in a remarkably short time, after which they came mess, or supper and the camp was soon afterward wrapped in slumber.

Capt. Paul P. Price, of Co. G, was chosen as officer of the day, and Lieut. Hope Gates, of Co. C, of Owensboro, officer of the guard, Saturday night. Sergeant Thos. Peyton was sergeant of quarters.

A local paper, speaking of the officer of the day and the officer of the guard, said they were Spanish war veterans and experienced men.

The Paducah Sun of Aug. 29, commenting on the guard mount Saturday, Capt. Paul P. Price's day as officer of the day, had the following to say:

"Soldiers from the regular army would not have made a better appearance at guard mount than the Third regiment guards did this morning. It was conducted by Capt. Chapman, regimental adjutant, and was the prettiest and most perfect held since the encampment began. The regimental band, of Owensboro, consisting of twenty pieces and a drum major, rendered the music, which was excellent. Like the guard, the band is also well drilled."

"Twenty-one guns were fired preceding guard mount as the governor's salute. The ammunition for the Hopkins gun arrived last night and the salute was the first since the encampment. This will be the only salute fired during the encampment. One shot will be fired for revolve and one for retreat."

Services were conducted at the park theatre Sunday morning at eleven o'clock by Rev. Frank M. Thomas, of Owensboro, chaplain for the Regiment.

Excursion trains were run from Hopkinsville, Mayfield and other cities near by and a large number of visitors were at camp Sunday.

Inspection was held Sunday by Governor Beckham, Adj. Gen. Haley, Inspector Gen. Gaines and Col. J. J. Henry and staff. Co. G passed perfect inspection, and was the only company in the camp to do so. Capt. Paul P. Price was highly complimented by the inspection officers.

Monday morning Co. G marched to the rifle range situated about one mile from the camp site where target practice was indulged in for four hours. Five shots were fired by each member of the company at target A, which is used for short range, shooting at a distance of 200 yds. in a standing position. This target is a rectangle 6 feet high by 4 feet wide and has a black circular bull's eye 8 inches in diameter, and has a value of five for every time it is hit. Center ring, 36 inches in diameter; value for hit, 4; inner ring, 40 inches, value of hit, 3; outer remainder of target, value of hit, 2; a ricochet or when the bullet hits anything and strikes the target, has the same value as a direct hit. In the 200 yard range shooting Private Wm. Lamb made a score of 22 out of a possible 25. Sgt. Lawson Miles and Corp. L. E. Groves made 16 out of a possible 25. Private Wm. Skene carried off the honors in the 300 yards practice shooting in a kneeling or sitting position. Private Chas. Wyatt, Sgt. Lawson Miles and Artillery Chas. Stokes made the highest scores, 18, 16 and 16 out of a possible 25. Private Wm. Lamb, in shooting at both distances, made 18, out of a possible 25, being the best marksman in the company. Those ranking next to him and making an exceptionally good score were Sgt. Lawson Miles, 32 out of a possible 25, and Private Chas. Wyatt 32 out of a possible 25. Co. G will practice at 500 yard range some time before the encampment. This is the best shooting by any that has been done on the company range during the encampment, and Private Wm. Lamb has established the record as being the best marksman in the regiment.

Lieut. Beckham, U. S. A., has said that Co. G is the best drilled and best in department of any company in the camp. Owing to the removal from the State of E. W. Ray, of Hopkinsville, Regimental Sergeant-Major, Battalion Sergeant Major Brick Southworth has been promoted to succeed him. Sgt. J. Y. Montague has been filling the vacancy caused by the promotion temporarily. Several members of Co. G have been on the sick list, but none have been ill enough to go to the hospital yet. The commissary department is in charge of Capt. Frank Kashi, Regimental Sgt. Henry Jones and Commissary Sergeant Carl Woolfolk, and the men are well pleased with the competent men that are in charge of this department. The daily routine for the Regiment is as follows:

Camp Notes.

Dr. McCormack, surgeon, has issued orders that the men must not use other drinking cups, pans, etc., than those belonging to them. This is done to prevent the transmission of disease which is apt to occur in using the same things by different persons.

The Third Regiment was reviewed by Gov. Beckham and staff and Adj. Gen. Haley and Inspector General Gaines on Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The regiment made a very creditable showing, and held its own with the other two regiments that have already been inspected. Several thousand visitors witnessed the review.

Balls are given at the pavilion, which is about thirty yards from the camp, nightly and a great many of the boys are in attendance.

Sgt. Lawson Miles was officer of the quarters on Monday.

Private Ernest Wyatt has been promoted to the rank of corporal since the encampment began.

Bud Day and Garfield Ratcliff (col.) are the cooks for Co. G and have the reputation of being the best in regiment.

The encampment for 1905 will come to an end sometime next Saturday night. Company G will arrive home about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, Sept. 3.

Dress parades are held at the base ball park, near the camp, every evening. A large crowd of people are always present to witness this event.

Several members of the local company did not go into camp this year on account of sickness and other reasons.

Meadames Walter Powers, Ira Parish and Ott Powers, of Madisonville, are with their husbands at Camp Yeiser during the encampment.

Camp Yeiser was thrown in a state of excitement last Monday night about 12 o'clock, caused by what was supposed to have been an attack made on the camp by some parties who had surrounded it. Guns were fired, cannon boomed and bugles sounded the riot call, men came hastily from their tents with guns; companies were quickly formed, and skirmish lines were thrown out to repel the enemy. After an investigation was made, it was found that a false alarm had been given to instruct the boys in case an attack should happen in the future. Co. G had the honor of being the first company to form and throw out a skirmish line. Comments by officers of other companies in camp on the quick work of Co. C, of Owensboro, Monday night were expressed on Tuesday morning. "They were out on the guard line in four minutes."

It is really possible to go from the Atlantic to the Pacific in two days and a half by train—although nobody has ever done it yet—what's the use of trying to perfect the flying machine?

OVER A GAME OF CARDS

J. M. Murrah Was Killed at Oak Hill Mines Near Nortonville Sunday Night.

J. M. Murrah, better known around here as "Pig" Murrah, was killed at the Oak Hill Coal Company's mines near Nortonville Sunday night over a game of cards. It seems that Murrah, Rowland Moore and others were engaged in a friendly game of cards. It is said they were all drinking. A dispute soon arose over some point in the game between Murrah and Moore. Hot words were followed by blows and it is reported Murrah advanced on Moore with a knife and cornered him, when Moore used his own knife and stabbed Murrah once in the wrist and then over the heart. Murrah never spoke after receiving the wounds and died in a short time. The dead man was a good hearted, hard working man when sober and was generally liked, but was quarrelsome and irritable when drinking. He was about forty years old, and leaves a wife and several small children in the neighborhood of Mortons Gap, where he has always resided.

Rowland Moore is a son of Duncan Moore and lives near White Plains.

Coroner Mack Stevens, of Madisonville, held an inquest over the remains shortly after the killing and the following facts were brought forth: That there was considerable drinking going on at the assemblage and it was suspected that gambling was being engaged (but none of the witnesses would testify concerning gambling); that Murrah became enraged at some remark made by Moore and told him (with an oath) not to do that again; that Murrah began kicking at Moore; that Moore retreated and finally turned on Murrah with his knife in his hand, inflicting the wounds as stated.

JOHN EDENS

Shots Bud Arnold, of Near Hanson, at Madisonville Saturday Night.

Bud Arnold, who lives near Hanson, was shot at the house of a Mrs. Fuqua, who lives in the outskirts of Madisonville, Saturday night. It is not known just what started the trouble. Both men are said to have been more or less under the influence of booze and both were out for a good time. Edens began a target practice at Arnold. The first shot tore away the lapel of his coat and the next removed the majority of his eyebrows and came out near the top of his head. The wound is quite painful, but not thought to be serious. After the shooting Edens went home and barricaded the doors and windows and declined to suffer the indignity of arrest, but Sheriff Ashby and Deputy Powers soon brought him in and lodged him in jail.

Health Notice.

Citizens are requested to at once clean their premises. In the interest of the health of our town all decaying matter, refuse of all kinds, should be buried, burned or otherwise disposed of. That the best sanitary conditions prevail, plenty of lime should be used. This time of year fevers prevail and it behooves all citizens to attend promptly to this request.

PART OF HOWELL SHOPS DESTROYED

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad Has Another Big Fire Early Sunday Morning.

Howell, Ind., Aug. 28.—The Louisville & Nashville railroad company has had her fourth big fire within the past two months. The Henderson freight house, Nashville round house, Louisville passenger station and the Howell blacksmith, coppersmith and boiler shops.

It was the worst time, Sunday morning, that the fire could have occurred, being when the night crew goes off and the day crew goes on. About 7 o'clock John Martin, foreman of the repair track, together with the day watchman who had just come on duty, discovered a blaze about two feet square in the blacksmith shop, under the roof, about two feet from the petition between the blacksmith and boiler shop. The alarm was immediately given, and to the credit of the Howell shops fire department it must be said that within ten minutes after three streams of water were playing on the blaze. The blaze, however, had gained too much headway to be checked. The building is 200 feet long by 100 feet wide. All the timbers supporting the roof were yellow pine and dry, igniting very rapidly. The fire spread as if the wood work had been saturated with oil. In a moment the wooden, sky-light fell in, causing more draft. By the time the Evansville fire department arrived, the L. & N. boys had the fire pretty much under control. The water was being forced by 100 pounds pressure, which, it seems, was too much for the hose of the Evansville fire department, as they soon burst four sections.

Mr. Walsh, the master mechanic, says the fire will not interfere with the work of the other departments, nor will it put any men out of work. All the furnaces in the blacksmith shop will again be going as if nothing had ever happened by Wednesday morning. The damage will not exceed four or five thousand dollars.

Pat McCue, the foreman of the blacksmith shop, left Saturday night for St. Charles, Mo. He was notified by wire of the disaster and he returned to Howell at once, being on hand this morning.

The source of the fire is traced to a group of electric wires on which the insulation had been worn.

If the fire had broken out at any other time it would have been easier to cope with, especially in view of the fact that the Howell shops has perhaps the best fire fighting facilities in the country. Gus Carpenter, foreman of the tin shop, is the chief. Walter Jarrett, air brake manipulator and instructor, assistant. The rest of the boys belong in the various departments. They practice one hour every Friday.

As a precaution against fire, one fireman is appointed for each department, who examines every nook and corner for spontaneous combustion or oily waste that may be scattered around, and also examines flues and furnaces. This is done once a week. The chief, also, makes his rounds once a week in all departments. Mr. Walsh is authority for the statement that they have on hand 2,000 feet of hose in excellent condition and ready for immediate use.

WIFE SLAYER

Percy J. Luster Passed Through Earlington Thursday Afternoon on Train No. 51.

EXAMINING TRIAL NEXT SATURDAY.

Percy J. Luster, formerly manager of the Cumberland Telephone Company, who killed his wife at Guthrie July 29, passed through this place Thursday afternoon on train 51. Luster was arrested in Ogden, Utah, and brought back to the scene of his crime by City Marshal Burrus, of Guthrie, and Sheriff Coleman Gill, of Elkton. In speaking of the case Burrus said: "Luster was in an extremely nervous state when he was arrested and it was necessary to frequently brace him with stimulants during the return trip to Kentucky." On reaching Guthrie 51 was late and it was dark, consequently Luster was gotten into a room at the hotel without very many people knowing he was there. A few of his friends and others soon learned of his arrival, however, and came in to see him. Luster recognized some of them, others he did not appear to know. He was taken to Elkton that night and placed in jail. When Prosecuting Attorney Mallory asked him the next day if he realized the enormity of his crime, Luster asked him, "What crime?" When told it was wife murder, he was apparently astonished and exclaimed, "What! Me murder my wife?" He had forgotten in this short time what he had told Maxine Everett in Ogden. The examining trial is set for Saturday, Sept. 2, and it is expected a large crowd will attend from Guthrie. Marshal Burrus stated that Luster had only $1.90 when arrested, a programme for some play he had attended, a few letters and some railroad maps. He gave the officers some little trouble when first arrested, but has since been quiet and tractable.

BUGGY TURNS OVER

And Injures Two of Earlington's Citizens Sunday Afternoon.

Sunday afternoon while out driving Thos. Stone and Wallace Crenshaw were thrown from a buggy in front of Stone's livery stable. The horse attached to the buggy made a short turn and the lines slipped from the hands of the driver. The buggy was overturned and both men were thrown violently to the ground. Mr. Stone was considerably injured about the face and head. Mr. Crenshaw was badly shaken up and otherwise bruised, but neither of the gentlemen were seriously injured.

Tacky Party.

Friday afternoon about twenty-five little girls were delightfully entertained by the Misses Whalen at a tacky party. This was given to their little guest, Theresa Rowe. Elizabeth Lindell won the prize for the tackiest little girl. After a merry time playing games refreshments were served.

Had Buggy Wrecked.

Someone out driving Saturday night in a buggy came in sudden and violent contact with a telephone pole near the tool house and left one hind wheel of the vehicle there. Just across the railroad stood the remainder of the vehicle. It is not known who the unfortunate man is who will have to tow the bill.

Sugar, when first introduced into England, was only used for the purpose of making medicines more palatable.

The printing office is the distributor of news and of indispensable publicity for the merchant, the manufacturer and the business man. It is also the originator many times and the manufacturer always of labor saving forms that help the business man to greater time economy and a better profit. NEW FEVER NESTS ARE UNEARTHED

Inspection Tour of Dr. Milo Brady in Jefferson Parish, La.

THIRTY-FIVE CASES OF FEVER

Several Deaths Have Occurred and Much Suffering Resulted Among the Fishermen Along the Bayous and Lakes.

New Orleans, Aug. 30.—The official report to U. S. M. Tuesday shows New cases, 45; total to date, 1,832. Deaths, 7; total to date 207. Cases remaining under treatment, 174.

The most important development of the yellow fever situation was the report of Dr. C. Milo Brady, who had been sent by the state board of health on a tour of inspection of the bayous and lakes in Jefferson parish, where there are many settlements of fishermen in constant communication with New Orleans. Dr. Brady made the trip with Dr. Shanley, of North Dakota. Without completing their investigation, they were called back to New Orleans by a telegram along Bayou Barataria, learned that deaths had occurred and found much suffering. After Dr. Brady had made his report the state board decided to organize immediately a relief party consisting of a physician and two nurses. A large supply of medicines and provisions also will be forwarded, and the state board will keep in constant touch with the situation in the effort to control the sickness.

The local situation continues to be of the most hopeful. On August 18 there were estimated to be 459 cases under treatment, but since then there has been a steady diminution until now there are reported only 174 sick, 74.5 per cent of the total of 1,788 cases having been discharged as cured or convalescent. Dr. Gutterus will be sent to Marches as soon as he returns to this city. Saturday and Sunday of this week have been set as additional fumigation days. Showers continued here throughout the day, and there was a great moderation in temperature. Whatever work has been done in the matter of diking and salting gutters will, of course, be undone by the rain, but Dr. White's organization is now sufficiently perfect to insure that there will be prompt re-diking and re-salting when clear weather comes again.

CAUSED MENTAL BREAKDOWN

Western Inventor Tries to Make a Non-refillable Bottle.

Deaths Made His Search, Like Thousands of Others Who Have Tried to Discover the Secret.

Washington, Aug. 27.—The patent office has received news of the death of a western inventor, who, after breaking down mentally, died as a direct result of his efforts to make an invention for which a big price had been offered.

It is stated at the patent office that this is the first case of this kind of sort brought to the notice of the office as a result of the efforts of inventors to produce a non-refillable bottle. Hundreds of men have devoted years of time to it, and thousands of them have worked at it; many have incurred considerable fortunes in the investigation. The latest inventor to fall a victim to the effort to produce the bottle was an Iowa named S. I. Sparks. He, like the others, had been interested because a whisky firm's offer of $25,000 for such an invention. Once a prosperous contractor, Sparks became insane while working on his invention.

At the patent office it is stated the Sparks case was one of over 5,000 people who have tried long and diligently to invent the non-refillable bottle. It was their understanding that a prize was variously stated at from $25 to $500,000, had been offered for the exclusive right to use such a bottle.

Hot for the Subway.

Query: If the teamsters' union can tangle up our streets and create riot and disorder in one hour, what could a chauffeurs' union do in twenty minutes?

The great bulk of our citizens, who perform continue to use the old Adamic method of locomotion, are anxiously asking this question today. They have noticed that the chauffeurs intend to organize. They know what the unorganized chauffeur can do when he moveth himself aright. Can they be blamed for a feeling of apprehension and dread in contemplating the possibilities of chauffeurs?

The blockading powers of a four-horse truck are not to be compared with the devastating possibilities of a forty-horse power automobile zigzagging through the streets with a union chauffeur at the steering wheel. One union chauffeur on a strike would be equivalent to ten union teamsters on an "educational" expedition.

But when it comes to "wrecking crews" mounted in automobiles and seeking whom they may devour, the outlook grows so black for the pedestrian that he looks with extreme favor on the most extravagant figures for subterranean means of travel and exclaims as he hies him to the nearest cellar:

"Ho, for the subway! Let the union chauffeur do what he lists with the streets!"—Chicago Evening Post.

No Complimentary Tickets Will Be Issued for Kentucky State Fair.

A Wise Move.

The Board of Control of the Kentucky State Fair met at the office of the secretary at Lexington last Wednesday. There were a number of quite important matters which came before it, but the most important action taken was one which will beyond question meet the approval of every taxpayer in Kentucky and every one interested in the permanent success of the State Fair. This was a resolution of the board that there should be no complimentary tickets issued for the State Fair.

The resolution as passed provided that not only should there be no complimentary tickets issued, but that there should be no complimentary tickets printed, so that there will be no possibility of any being issued under any circumstances or to any individual.

The Board of Control, after a thorough discussion of the question, came to the conclusion that it was its duty to the taxpayers of the State, whose coined sweat is given as a premiums at the fair, to take this action.

A Double Presentation.

John Kendrick Bangs once ran across a gift copy of one of his books in a secondhand bookshop, still having this inscription on the fly leaf: "To my friend, J. G., with the regards and the esteem of J. K. Bangs, July, 1899." Mr. Bangs bought the copy and sent it to his friend again with a second inscription beneath, "This book, bought in a secondhand bookshop, is re-presented to J. G., with renewed and reiterated regards and esteem by J. K. Bangs, December, 1899."

HEAD SOLID SORE

Awful Suffering of Baby and Sleepless Nights of Mother.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Skin Fair as a Lily with no Scar to Recall Awful Sore Writes Mother.

"I herewith write out in full the beginning and end of that terrible disease eczema," says Mrs. Wm. Ryer, Elk River, Minn., "which caused my babe untold suffering and myself many sleepless nights. My baby was born seemingly a fair, healthy child, but when she was three weeks old a swelling appeared on the back of her head, and in course of time broke. It did not heal but grew worse, and the sore spread from the size of a dime to that of a dollar. I used all kinds of remedies that I could think of, but nothing seemed to help. In fact, it grew worse. Her hair fell out where the sore was, and I feared it would never grow again. It continued until my aged father came on a visit, and when he saw the baby he told me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment right away.

CURE PERMANENT

"Your letter of the 10th inst. received, asking in regard to the cure of my baby some six years ago. Well, the disease has never returned to her head which at that time was a solid sore on top and down the back." Mrs. Wm. Ryer, Elk River, Minn., Feb. 25, 1903.

EX-COWBOY BREAKS WILD MUSTANG

In St. Bernard Pasture Sunday Afternoon in Presence of Large Crowd.

Young McCormack, an ex-cowboy who is in the employ of the St. Bernard Mining Company, won a large amount of praise and a small amount of money Sunday afternoon by riding a bucking broncho in the St. Bernard pasture near town. This particular broncho was a past master in the art of bucking and McCormack had him under control. He was then led to the St. Bernard pasture, followed by a large concourse of men and boys. He was firmly held by ten men and a boy while a Texas saddle was placed on him and McCormack, wearing two large spurs, mounted. The mustang was released and immediately stood on his hind legs and made an effort to dance the can-can. He next jumped into a deep ditch and stood on his head, then he made several ineffectual efforts to make McCormack off with his hind feet. He stood still about five seconds and suddenly jumped ten feet in the atmosphere with his back humped up and his feet bunched together. When he came down he ran violently down a steep place and fell down. Then his dauntless rider dismounted with one thumb almost torn off and his neck partially dislocated, but he had kept his promise—he rode the broncho.

Taken With Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home. It may save life.

GREAT

Auction LOT SALE

—AT—

Webster County, Kentucky, on

Friday and Saturday Sept. 15-16,
1905

Clay is the coming town of Webster county! Its agricultural resources cannot be surpassed! It is the center of a great mining development which will be traversed by three railroads! In a short time Clay will be to Webster county what Earlington is to Hopkins! The quality of its coal is surpassed by none and will be developed on a mammoth scale by eastern capital, which has been buying coal properties so very extensively during recent months.

This development is just in its infancy and big profits will be realized by all who have the enterprising spirit to make investments in real estate here.

Real estate can not get away; it can not be destroyed by fire or flood and money planted in good property at Clay will grow many fold in value in a few years.

Most all great fortunes have been made in real estate by those who have foresight to get in on the ground floor at places where conditions force development like those which now exist at Clay.

The Clay Improvement Company will offer for sale at auction, one hundred building lots on September 15 and 16.

These lots are situated high and dry, are laid off in beautiful streets and convenient alleys, and present the best opportunities for the extension of building in this progressive little city.

The lots are right in the edge of town and located near the coal mining property of J. Pierpont Morgan & Company, which will be operated on a tremendous scale.

The Clay Improvement Company own and have for sale about two hundred and fifty lots, but will sell only one hundred. The reason for selling only one hundred is that when these are sold and built on, every remaining lot belonging to the Clay Improvement Company will enhance its value from one hundred to five hundred per cent.

Every purchaser of a lot in this sale will share in the enhancement of value in same proportion as the Clay Improvement Company. In other words, if a man buys a lot, for instance at one hundred dollars at this sale, and in two or three years the improvement of Clay enhances the value of the remaining lots of the Clay Improvement Company up to two hundred or five hundred each, a lot purchased at this sale for one hundred goes up in value in same proportion. Therefore those who get in on the ground floor at this sale will be the ones who reap the harvest of increase in value which is sure to come.

Take every town in this section of the country where the mining interest has been developed on a large scale and real estate has steadily climbed upward, but with Clay the conditions are more favorable, for the reason that three railroads afford competition in freight rates and tend to hasten development generally.

This is a legitimate business proposition with the Clay Improvement Company. It is willing that one hundred lots be sold off at low prices to purchasers at this sale, for the benefit it will be to the company in enhancing the value of its remaining lots, and pushing the development of Clay.

TERMS OF SALE:

Twenty dollars cash, balance payable ten dollars per month with six per cent. interest. Purchaser has option to pay all cash and receive discount of two per cent.

The terms of this sale offer an exceptional opportunity to young men wanting to start in business for themselves, and no line of business has more attractive features for the young man of ambition than real estate investment. Nothing is so sure to yield quick returns than to buy property in a live town and let the property grow in value as the town grows.

Get on the ground floor at Clay. Attend the big auction sale of lots. Plant a few dollars in a lot and watch them grow day by day and year by year. There is nothing to be lost. There is much to be made in Clay real estate.

Peace Dangers In the Navy of Uncle Sam

Disaster to the Bennington Recalls
Other Tragedies of the Past Decade—Commander Lucien Young's Picturesque Career.

It has been said that the men who died on the Bennington at San Diego recently when her boilers exploded also truly in the service of their country as if they had met death when shells were bursting in air during a fight with an enemy. As a matter of fact, in recent years disaster in time of peace have been more fatal to officers and enlisted men in the navy than battles in time of war. Admiral Dewey won the great battle of Manila Bay without a single man in his whole fleet being killed. Admiral Cervera's fleet was destroyed at Santiago with a loss of but one man on the American side. The total losses of the American navy during the whole Spanish war were but sixteen killed and sixty-eight wounded.

The record of fatalities from disasters of one kind or another during the past decade has been much more appalling. The most distressing of these calamities, of course, was the destruction of the battleship Maine in the harbor of Havana on the night of Feb. 15, 1898. It caused the death of 257 American sailors and hastened the outbreak of the war with Spain. The board of inquiry rendered a decision that the blowing up of the Maine was due to contact with an exterior mine, but whether the affair was accidental or intentional was never clearly shown.

In number of casualties the Bennington disaster ranks next to that of the Maine. No other accident has occurred within the decade approaching either of these catastrophes in loss of life. But there have been quite a number resulting in a small list of dead and injured. On Feb. 3, 1902, a gun burst on board the Kearsarge when it was in West Indian waters, killing five men. This vessel is a namesake of the gallant ship that made a record during the civil war. It was launched at Newport News in 1899 and soon got into trouble with the Newport authorities by the accidental discharge of a shell from a gun in the fighting top. It went hurtling over the powerful summer resort city, clipped off the top of a big tree and ended its career by taking a section of stone out of the Newport city hall. Fortunately nobody was hit by the stray shot.

Two serious accidents have befallen the Massachusetts, Jan. 16, 1903, when the ship was off Cuba, and the discharge of a percussion primer while the gun breech was still open caused the death of six men. Dec. 13, 1904, when the same warship was at League Island navy yard, a gasket blew off a boiler and killed the fire room with steam, killing three men.

The accident to the Missouri in April of last year was one of the worst in the list. The vessel was off Pensacola when 2,000 pounds of powder in the after turret ignited. Five officers who were in the turret and twenty-four enlisted men were killed. Wrecking of other magazine rooms near the after turret prevented further explosions. One of the officers killed in this accident was Lieutenant John P. V. Gridley, son of Captain Charles V. Gridley, who commanded the Olympia in the battle of Manila Bay.

The battleship Iowa has met with two accidents. Off Pensacola in April, 1904, a gun burst, killing three and injuring five. A few days later a steam pipe in the boiler room burst, and for a time the ship was helpless, but happily the results were not serious. Just ten years ago at New London, Conn., a mishap occurred to the Ericsson, resulting in the death of a number of the crew.

The commander of the Bennington, Lucien Young, has a fine record for courageous deeds. He is a native of Kentucky and is fifty-three years of age. When he was in his teens he saved the life of a fellow sailor. At the time of the wreck of the USS Cape Hatteras, he was on board, though a private, and he saved the lives of three of the crew. This a handsome record.

Peace Made Possible By the Wisely of the Japanese.

Won a Moral Victory and of Lives.

President Roosevelt Has Won for Himself and Country the World's Commendation.

The Work of Putting the Treaty of Peace Into Shape Will Now be Proceeded With.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 30.—The conference has arrived at complete accord on all questions. The Japanese yielded practically everything. They accepted the Russian ultimatum, no indemnity and a division of Sakhalin without payment of redemption money.

"It seems incredible. I don't believe any other man in my place would have dared to hope for the possibility of peace on the conditions we have just agreed to," WITTE.

WILD SCREAMS OF JOY.

Men Threw Their Hats in the Air and Women Wept.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 30.—A scene of great excitement followed the receipt of the news of the conference agreement in the lobby of the Hotel

Wentworth. The official bulletin was telephoned from the conference room at the navy yard by Mr. Sato, and like an electric thrill flooded through the room. There were screams of joy. Men threw their hats aloft, women actually wept. There was a rush for the telegraph office, and in an instant the news was spreading to the remotest corners of the earth.

PEACE HAS ARRIVED.

Russia Was the Victor in This Final Battle of Diplomacy.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 30.—Peace is here. It arrived when the envoys of Russia and Japan met at the navy yard and came to an agreement on all points of difference.

RUSSIA was the victor in this final battle of diplomacy.

SHE GOT ALL she contended for.

JAPAN CONCEDED every point in dispute.

SHE WITHDREW her demand for indemnity.

SHE GAVE UP the contention for a cession of Sakhalin island and agreed to divide it with Russia, returning the northern half.

SHE RECEDED from her determination to have Russia's interned warships.

SHE ABANDONED her claim that Russia should limit her sea power in the far east.

RUSSIA AGREED to make liberal payment for the support of the Russian prisoners captured by the Japanese.

Immediately the agreement was reached the news was flashed to Tokio and St. Petersburg and the envoys asked instructions for arranging an armistice pending the drawing up and signing of the treaty of peace.

The envoys are arranging details of the armistice.

As soon as it is ready, they will proceed to the elaboration and drawing of the peace treaty, and will sit daily until it is completed.

"It was a complete victory for Russia," said Mr. Witte, mopping his brow, as he came out of the peace conference at the adjournment for the noon recess.

When the envoys met Baron Komura presented a half proposition, looking to the payment of some sort of indemnity by Russia.

"THAT WILL NEVER DO," said Mr. Witte, "we have said our last word—Russia will never pay a cent of indemnity."

Instantly Komura said: "VERY WELL, WE WILL WAIVE ALL INDEMNITY AND DEMAND ONE-HALF OF SAKHALIN."

WITTE WAS THUNDERSTRUCK. He had expected no such concession. There was nothing for him to do but accept, and he did accept.

It is estimated that Russia will pay from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 to the Japanese for the care of the Russian prisoners.

Mr. Witte expresses the opinion that some time will be required to complete the details of the treaty. He does not approximate the period, but it is apparent that several weeks will probably elapse before the treaty is ready for the final signature.

The Japanese correspondents express great dissatisfaction with the basis of the treaty.

STORY OF THE FINAL SESSION.

A Happy Termination of the Portsmouth Peace Conference.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 30.—The long and bloody war between Japan and Russia is ended. The terms of peace were settled by Mr. Witte and Baron Komura at the session of the conference Tuesday morning, and in the afternoon preliminary arrangements for an armistice were concluded. The actual work of framing the "Treaty of Portsmouth" was, by mutual agreement, turned over to Mr. De Martens, Russia's great international lawyer, and Mr. Denison, who for 25 years has acted as the legal adviser of the Japanese foreign office.

The treaty is expected to be completed by the end of the week.

A Happy Conclusion.

This happy conclusion of the conference which, a week ago, would have been shipwrecked had it not been for the heroic intemperance of President Roosevelt, was sudden and dramatic.

For the sake of peace, Japan, with the magnanimity of a victor, at the last moment yielded everything still in issue.

Russia refused to budge from the ultimatum Emperor Nicholas had given to President Roosevelt through Ambassador Meyer. No indemnity under any guise, but an agreement to divide Sakhalin and reimburse Japan for the maintenance of the Russian prisoners were his last words. They had been repeatedly reiterated in Mr. Witte's instructions and in the form of a written reply to the Japanese compromise proposal of last Wednesday, they were delivered to Baron Komura Tuesday morning.

Mr. Witte went to the conference declaring he was powerless to change the dot of an 'i' or the cross of a 't' in his instructions. Emperor Nicholas' word had been given not only to him, but to President Roosevelt, the head of a foreign state.

Japan Placed the Trump Card.

When Baron Komura, therefore, first offered the new basis of compromise outlined in the press dispatches yesterday (the complete renunciation of indemnity, coupled with the proposition for the redemption of Sakhalin at a price to be fixed by a mixed tribunal consisting of representatives of the neutral powers, in fact, if not in words, the solution offered by the president), Mr. Witte again returned a non possumus. It was what Mr. Witte termed in a recent interview the psychological moment. Mr. Witte did not flinch. He expected a rupture, and as he expressed himself afterwards, he was stunned by what happened. Baron Komura gave way on all the disputed points.

He Remained More War.

With the prevalence that has enabled the Japanese to range the mental process of their adversaries on the field of battle and upon the sea, they had realized in advance that peace could be obtained in no other way. They had warned their government. President Roosevelt had also, it is believed, advised Japan that it was better to meet the position than to take the responsibility of continuing the war for the purpose of collecting tribute. The mikado at the session of the cabinet and elder statesmen had sanctioned the concession. When Baron Komura yielded, the rest was child's play.

"Just and lasting" Peace.

Both sides, once the deadlock was broken, wanted "just and lasting" peace, and in that spirit it was decided to practically neutralize Sakhalin, each country binding itself not to fortify its half of the island, and Japan assuming an obligation not to fortify the La

Pereone strait between Sakhalin and Hokkaido, which would bar Russia's commercial route to the Pacific.

The plenipotentiaries went further. They decided to add a new clause in the nature of a broad provision for mutual commercial privileges by which each country will secure for the other the benefit of the "most favored nation" clause and the "open door."

Will Be a Friendly Document.

The new treaty, therefore, will be a wonderfully friendly document of character almost to raise the suspicion that the two countries have not negotiated peace, but have concluded the basis of a future alliance.

There is, however, no evidence as to whether any secret clauses are to be appended to the present treaty.

Electing the conference building, the plenipotentiaries exchanged with the president at Oyster Bay. Both Baron Komura and Mr. Witte telegraphed the conference chairman to apprize Mr. Roosevelt of the conditions upon which peace had been concluded.

Mr. Witte frankly laid his tribute at the president's feet in his message he said:

Tribute To the President.

"History will ascribe to you the glory," he added, "of the expression of Russia's hearty appreciation of the president's 'generous initiative.'"

Mr. Roosevelt, replied with words of thanks and congratulation. Then began the publication by which Mr. Witte and Baron de Rosen returned to the hotel for luncheon. The Japanese had remained at the conference hall to lunch with Mr. Pelce.

The news that peace had been concluded had preceded the Russian plenipotentiaries, and such scenes of wild rejoicing have never before been witnessed in the state of New Hampshire as greeted them upon their arrival at the hotel.

The Russian Joy.

Mr. Witte, dazed at the sudden and happy termination of the conference, was fairly overpowered by the tremendous ovation he received. He could only express his gratitude by shaking the hands of everybody, and in response to the volleys of questions directed at him as to the terms, murmured, "We pay not a kopeck and we get back of Sakhalin."

Later, in his room, when he had partially recovered himself, he declared that he could not have dreamed of such a victory, for that he regards it as a diplomatic triumph of the first magnitude he makes no attempt to conceal.

And that is the general verdict here. The Russians are overjoyed at the result.

We have had our Liao Yang and Mukden on land, and our 'bad old' Tushima on sea, but the Japanese have their Portsmouth."

THE PRESIDENT ELATED.

The News Took the President by Surprise.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 30.—In his library at Sagamore Hill, President Roosevelt received the announcement that the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries at Portsmouth had reached an agreement and would proceed at once to formulate a treaty of peace.

The announcement had not been expected so soon. The president at no time during the negotiations pining and abandoned hope of a successful issue of the conference. While he had, for a moment, relaxed his earnest efforts to induce the conference to continue their discussions with a view to securing a basis of agreement, he had felt for 48 hours that the task he had set for himself in the interest of humanity and civilization was well-nigh hopeless.

Situation Had Looked Dark.

The president's final appeals to St. Petersburg and Tokio had been made. No response had been received from the orient, but from Peterhof palace had come, in Emperor Nicholas' own words, Russia's ultimatum—"not a kopeck of indemnity, not a verger of territory."

The situation looked black indeed. The president, however, did not despair. With the final terms of the Japanese ultimatum, which they should have received from Japan's emperor, he had determined to seek the aid of Emperor William of Germany, in support of his proposition to the conference to submit their points of difference to the arbitration of an impartial tribunal.

Had Succeeded Arbitration.

Arbitration, in one form or another, had been the president's solution of the difficulty ever since the differences, seemingly irreconcilable by the envoys had arisen. To this proposition Japan had acceded. With the powerful influence of the German emperor at Peterhof enlisted, it was hoped that the ground of objection might be cut from beneath the feet of Emperor Nicholas.

Official Confirmation.

Official confirmation of the historic tidings reached the audience in a dispatch from Portsmouth. By authority and at the request of Baron Komura, the chief envoy of Japan, the plenipotentiaries of Japan have withdrawn their claim for reimbursement of war expenses, and an agreement has been reached as to the partition of the island of Sakhalin. All main points have been definitely settled. The plenipotentiaries will now proceed with discussion of details."

Full Report From Portsmouth.

Shortly after the receipt of this message, the full report of the scenes at Portsmouth incident to the announcement of the news there, including Mr. Witte's statement, was telegraphed to the difference by the conference, was received at the executive offices and carried to the public.

President Roosevelt.

The man who brought the warring powers together, and who stood for peace when all others had lost hope, by a special messenger to President Roosevelt at his home. He read the account with deep interest.

President Professor Gratiot.

While the president did not seek to conceal his profound gratification that the conference had reached an agreement, he said he was obliged, in the circumstances, to refrain from any formal expression regarding the work accomplished until he should have been informed fully as to the details. It can be said, however, that he feels that the successful issue of the conference is a great triumph for humanity and civilization.

Such public expression of the president's opinion regarding the work of the conference will be announced after he shall have had opportunity carefully to consider it.

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON.

Surprise and Satisfaction Expressed in Official Quarters.

Washington, Aug. 30.—News of the agreement of the plenipotentiaries at Portsmouth was received here with surprise, for while the official mind had been in a measure prepared for a successful outcome of the conference, by the statements contained in the press dispatches from Portsmouth, no such speedy action was anticipated. Following closely upon the press bulletin announcing the agreement came a message (Acting Secretary of State Loomis) from Third Assistant Secretary Pelce at Portsmouth, which was subsequently regarded as official, in these words: "Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries agreed upon terms of peace."

Acting Secretary of State Loomis said:

"A great service has been rendered all mankind by the president. The president has personally done more to bring about this much desired peaceful settlement of the war in the far east than the world knows or perhaps will ever know. His achievement is as splendid as it is unique."

Great satisfaction is felt in army and navy and all official circles.

STATEMENT BY MR. SATO.

He Voices the Official View of the Japanese Position.

Portsmouth, Aug. 30.—The Japanese statement was issued by Mr. Sato on behalf of the Japanese plenipotentiaries:

"The questions of the final disposition of the island of Sakhalin and the reimbursement of war expenses, which have been the first two issues on which absolute divergence of views existed. The difference of opinion upon these points—one, but both have frequently threatened the existence of the conference. But his majesty, the emperor of Japan, responding to the dictates of humanity and civilization, in the interest of peace, authorized his plenipotentiaries to waive the question of reimbursement of war expenses and consented to a division of Sakhalin upon terms which are mutually acceptable, thus making it possible to bring the important work of the conference to a successful issue."

AS VIEWED IN LONDON.

The Morning Papers Accord Praise for Japanese Magnanimity.

London, Aug. 30.—The morning papers, while sharing the astonishment of the public at the unexpected nature of the peace terms, accord the greatest praise to Japan for having chosen so magnanimous a course. It is contended that by waiving the question of indemnity Japan might justly claim the whole of the island of Sakhalin, and that therefore the return of half the island is a concession made entirely in the interest of peace. All the papers express gratitude to President Roosevelt and admiration of his untiring zeal, giving him full credit for being "the man who made peace possible."

How to keep potatoes in good condition from the time they are dug in the fall until the new crop is ripe the next season, is a subject often discussed, and one of the utmost importance, writes J. W. Ingram, of Bradford Penn., in the Parasitic Farmer. They must be kept without freezing, which can be done either in a pit or in the cellar. The cellar must not be too warm or the potatoes will sprout before spring. If kept in a pit they must be removed as soon as the frost is out of the ground or they will sprout there. When removed from the pit or the cellar they must not be piled up in a big pile or they will sprout in a short time. The writer has had the best of success in keeping potatoes in good condition for planting in the spring and eating through the summer as follows:

Digging as soon as the tops commence dying in the fall, storing in a darkened outbuilding until the winter is approaching, then putting them in the cellar in boxes about 3 by 4½ feet, where they are kept a little above freezing point until spring. When the danger of freezing in the open air is over they are taken out and spread all over the floor of a store house, not more than two or three potatoes deep, with the building darkened. They are carefully shoveled over about once a week with a wooden scoop or fork made on purpose, bringing the under lot of potatoes on top each time. This shoveling them over destroys the desire to sprout and does not injure the potatoes.

Fall plowing is the next work to occupy the farmer's attention. This should be done as soon as possible after the harvest season is over and before the busy work of fall begins. There are good reasons for advising early fall plowing. The main reason is to preserve the soil moisture and prevent its escape from the use of fall sown crops. When cultivation ceases there is a crust formed on the soil that aids evaporation and the aim is to prevent the evaporation if the moisture is to be kept where it is needed.

Plowing breaks this crust and forms a sort of mulch on the surface which holds the moisture in. When there are weeds and grass plowed under, it gives them a larger time to decay before the fall crop is sown. Prof. Kluge, who has made many experiments along this line, says there is a strong tendency in climates where there is plenty of soil moisture for early fall plowing to develop nitrates, which are the plant food most likely to be wanting in the soil.

Beginners especially are apt to deceive themselves into a serious mistake by trying to crowd a few more hens into the already well filled houses.

They cannot see why one or two more should make any difference, though a little common sense should tell them that when the limit has been reached, any others added will be sure to bring about disorders.

Of course, the effect may not be noticeable for some little time, but it is sure to come and when it does, the loss of the entire flock is likely to follow.

Often, though disease does not show itself, the hens get lazy, because they have no room to work—some over-feed themselves because there is no room for all of them to help themselves, and invariably the egg supply ceases. Keep just enough and send all others to the market. A few good hens are worth more than a yard full of drones.

Rock Salt Best.
One of the best ways to salt animals is to use rock salt in large lumps. The cattle and other animals will then be compelled to lick it rather than eat it, and there is thus little of the danger of their getting too much of it. It should be placed where the animals can get to it at any time. Place it in a rack or boxes raised above the ground so that it will not get dirty. The sides of the boxes and racks should be high enough so that the salt cannot be used out. In case of sheep and goats, the racks for salt must be low so that the animals can get at the salt. When the lumps are reduced in size, it is better to place bigger ones in the places, and remove the small ones.—Midland Farmer.

Select Honey Trade.
If you desire to advertise your honey and to work up a trade, place your name and address on every package that you produce. For glass receptacles labels are all right, but for comb honey, either have a printed cartoon, or stamp your name on the section with a rubber stamp. If you are capable of producing a fancy article, you deserve the credit for it and all of the trade there is to be had. There is nothing like establishing a good honest reputation for yourself. Do this, and your honey will sell itself.—Farm Journal.

Ginseng Garden.
The Farmer's Home Journal has the following to say about the ginseng industry in Hartford and Ohio county:

Among the early ginseng gardens in Kentucky was that of the Columbia Ginseng Co., at Hartford, Ohio county, Ky. Recently our representative had the opportunity to visit one of the gardens of that company, located within the city limits of that town, and found it very interesting.

Indeed, the garden is under the hand of Dr. J. R. Pirtle, who is one of the owners of the stock in the company and has given the subject of ginseng growing careful study. There is probably no better posted grower in the state. His garden (and this is only one of several owned by the company) embraces about a quarter of an acre under cultivation. The whole is enclosed by an eight-foot fence with posts running through at intervals. On these posts rests cross pieces and on these rests heavy oak slats, thus letting through on the beds about as much sunlight as falls through the forest foliage on the favored places where the plant grows in its habitat.

It is surprising how great an investment is made on such a small space, for on this little garden are many beds of the plant from seedlings to four-year-olds. The plants now grown and cared for by the company number 150,000 seedlings and over 50,000 of the four and five plants, besides about 500,000 seeds. These latter are about old enough for the market, but are so profitable for the seed that they are allowed to stand. Thus they are the more valuable as they get older. The market for the root is dull now because of the disruption of trade with China but they expect all this to be arranged soon and the owners expect to realize great profit from their garden.

This Year's Corn Crop.

Corn is king in Kentucky this year and the harvest of this important crop promises to exceed by hundreds of thousands of bushels the yield of any other year. The crop is now practically safe with the exception of some very late planting. Throughout the state in the bottom and on the hillside, in the rich valleys and on poor fields, such luxuriant growth was never before seen. One of the most beneficial things in connection with the crops is that the farmer on poor land who usually has a scanty crop and sometimes nothing at all, will share this season with the rich farmer the great blessings of rain and sunshine that have made Kentucky a veritable Garden.

BIRTHPLACE

Of Abraham Lincoln, Near Hodgenville, Sold to Newspaper Man.

Hodgenville, Aug. 28.—The Abraham Lincoln birth place, located two miles south of Hodgenville, was sold today at non-commissioner's sale at the court house door to Richard L. Jones, representing R. J. Collier, of the Collier Publishing Company, for $3,800. There was a large crowd of country people in town to attend the sale, but none of them bid.

A number of strangers from Chicago, New York and at other places, were present. Only three of them made any bids when Commissioner Handley cried the sale. They were John E. Burton, a capitalist, of Milwaukee, and who owns the largest library of Lincoln histories in the world; Edward J. McDermott, of Louisville, representing the New York Christian and Missionary Alliance, and Richard L. Jones, of New York, representing R. J. Collier, a member of the Collier Publishing Co., of that city.

W. G. Frost, of Chicago, telegraphed to T. B. Kirkpatrick to buy the farm for him, but the financial arrangement could not be perfected in time for the sale and no bids were put in for him.

From the first it was evident that Mr. Jones would be the highest bidder and when $3,800 was reached, the others dropped out of the bidding, and it was knocked off to him.

Public Park Planned.

The Colliers will get possession of the place in December. Mr. Jones could not say what plans were contemplated, stating that he was commissioned to come here and buy the farm and had not been told anything about what the new owners proposed doing with the property. However, the place will be in good condition as soon as possession is given and it will be brought to the notice of the American people by transferring it into a public park, either by the new owners or by a society of admirers of Lincoln. In any event it has fallen into the hands of men of wealth who are willing to spend large sums to beautify and ornament it in the proper way.

Mr. Jones left immediately after the sale for New York, and it is expected that he and Mr. Collier will return here in a short time and prepare for the work that is to be done after the court has given legal possession.
